“I wish every child gets best nutrition and clean water” Dr. Bhatt

In our drive towards healthcare for underprivileged, the doctors of Max Hospitals play an important role and take pains to provide their services to the needy, away from their air conditioned units in the hospitals.

Dr. Rafiq Bhatt from Max Hospital Saket is one such doctor, who has been quite regular at our camps and treats patients with extreme affection and care.

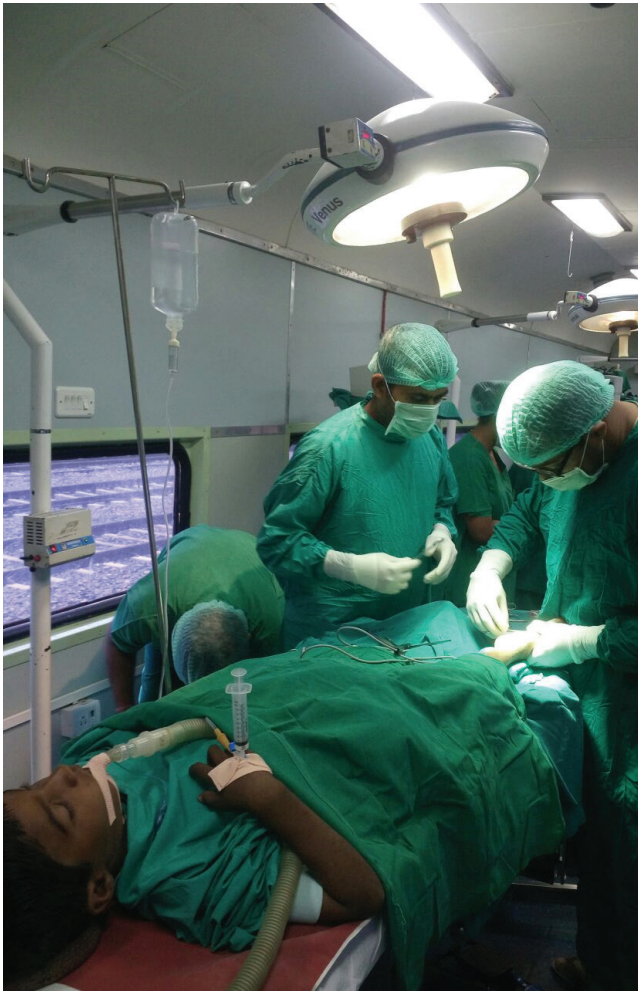

Extremely passionate about his profession, Dr. Rafiq is one of the few doctors who are looking for an opportunity to serve the underprivileged. “I believe that if doctors have been blessed with this talent to save lives, we should give something back to this world”, he says. Dr. Rafiq has had a difficult childhood and perhaps that’s what reflects in his attitude towards the needy. “I have seen a lot of struggle in my childhood. Raised by a single mother, I have studied in a very ordinary Government school and had limited means and access to good facilities. But I feel when you rise from the grassroot, you actually realise the value of life”, he shares. “It is not always important to have the right conditions to work but most important is to have the right attitude – and that is the sense of service”, smiles Dr. Rafiq. This Sevabhav is a hallmark of Max doctors and nurses.

When we asked him what is the one thing he would like to change about these children, “Good and nourishing diet along with clean drinking water is what I wish that every child should get. If that is achieved, the need of medicine will automatically go away”, replies the Doctor.
